Indie Icon Orono (Superorganism)

Brings Top-tier Musicians to Shape the Future of Pop!

Orono has formed the genre-morphing band nose noise in collaboration with Tim Lefebvre and Tyler Greenwell, acclaimed musicians active across multiple musical scenes and styles. Together, they are shaking up the world music scene once again with their unique sound. Bursting with humor, experimentation, pop sensibility, and their free-flowing ideas, nose noise is unbounded by the genres on which each member had previously focused. The band moves freely between genres, clashing their intense personalities to create unpredictable music.

- Orono : Frontperson of the London-formed multinational band Superorganism. Currently also active in the duo "cheese touch" with Mitch Marcico. Orono is a multi-disciplined artist who also creates artwork and writes in addition to her music.
- Tim Lefebvre : A contemporary master bassist who effortlessly traverses all genres - jazz, rock, pop - with bands like Knower and the Tedeschi Trucks Band. He has also composed film scores and appeared on David Bowie's final studio album Blackstar as a bassist.
- Tyler Greenwell : An esteemed drummer representing the American jam band scene. After playing with the Susan Tedeschi Band, he co-founded the Tedeschi Trucks Band and was noted for powerfully anchoring their rhythm section.
